Finding Significance

When you think of it, there are very few people that can make a claim to any significant historic record. We learned in seminary that the ancient Greeks sought to become immortalized in history by becoming playwrights, philosophers, or royalty. Most others in the ancient world would find their immortality through their progeny. Like many people that lived and died in all of human history, sad to say that the majority of us will live and die without being honored or remembered for having changed the course of human history or celebrated as an eternal memorial that endures one generation after the next. Progeny still seems to be the best possibility for most, though many of us are living better and longer lives than did the majority of men and women in ancient Greece.

Documents from the ancient world are filled with the names of famous people. Even the Gospel of Luke describes the historic and political setting into which Jesus is about to be born. Names like Herod or Pontius Pilate are memorable because of the Gospels. (Continued on page 5...)

Encontrar el Significado

Cuando lo piensas, hay muy pocas personas que pueden reclamar un registro histórico significativo. Aprendimos en el seminario que los antiguos griegos buscaban ser inmortalizados en la historia al convertirse en dramaturgos, filósofos o miembros de la realeza. La mayoría de los demás en el mundo antiguo encontrarían su inmortalidad a través de su progenie. Como muchas personas que vivieron y murieron en toda la historia humana, es triste decir que la mayoría de nosotros viviremos y moriremos sin ser honrados o recordados por haber cambiado el curso de la historia humana o celebrados como un memorial eterno que perdure una generación después de la próxima. La progenie todavía parece ser la mejor posibilidad para la mayoría, aunque muchos de nosotros estamos viviendo vidas más largas que la mayoría de los hombres y mujeres en la antigua Grecia.

Los documentos del mundo antiguo están llenos de nombres de personas famosas. Incluso el Evangelio de Lucas describe el escenario histórico y político en el que Jesús está a punto de nacer. Nombres como Herodes o Poncio Pilato son memorables por los Evangelios. (Continúa en la página 5...)

The historic report from the empire would likely be rather good about these political leaders, but the Gospels generally portray them as antithetical to what Jesus was proclaiming. Jesus did not regard them as adversaries per se but they became antagonistic to Jesus.

Fundamentally, Jesus was proclaiming a message that put him at odds with the political forces of his day. Many would not listen, but Jesus' message was custom made for the lowly. It gave the immigrant standing in foreign lands, it favored the humble of heart over the proud or haughty, it gave comfort to the stranger, it dialogued with the disenfranchised, and it brought the marginalized to the center. This message was for everyone, but it was especially meant for those predisposed to listen to it and learn how to live as Jesus day by day.

When we accept the way of discipleship in Jesus, it becomes possible to find our significance outside of ourselves—in the transcendent, in the transformational, in the heart of our sisters and brothers, and by the community we form in the Church. When we leave our selfishness behind, we are able to see others in need and can find solutions together. If you want to find significance by doing something extraordinary, start with the people you know by working together on a project that will help others find their way in life. Seeing significance in one another is incredibly important because it gives us confidence to join together and work as a team. We may not be immortalized in history, but by our discipleship we can find real importance in Jesus.

El informe histórico del imperio probablemente sea bastante bueno acerca de estos líderes políticos, pero los Evangelios generalmente los presentan como la antítesis de lo que Jesús estaba proclamando. Jesús no los consideró como adversarios, sino que se volvieron antagonistas de Jesús.

Fundamentalmente, Jesús estaba proclamando un mensaje que lo puso en desacuerdo con las fuerzas políticas de su época. Muchos no escucharon, pero el mensaje de Jesús fue hecho para los humildes. Le dio al inmigrante posición en tierras extranjeras, favoreció a los humildes de corazón sobre los orgullosos o altivos, dio consuelo al extraño, dialogó con los desposeídos y trajo al centro a los marginados. Este mensaje era para todos, pero estaba especialmente dirigido a aquellos que estaban predispuestos a escucharlo y aprender a vivir como Jesús día a día.

Cuando aceptamos el camino del discipulado en Jesús, es posible encontrar nuestro significado fuera de nosotros mismos: en lo trascendente, en lo transformador, en el corazón de nuestros hermanos y hermanas, y en la comunidad que formamos en la Iglesia. Cuando dejamos atrás nuestro egoísmo, somos capaces de ver a otros en necesidad y podemos encontrar soluciones juntos. Si quiere encontrar significado haciendo algo extraordinario, comience con las personas que conoce trabajando juntas en un proyecto que ayudará a otros a encontrar su camino en la vida. Ver el significado de unos en otros es increíblemente importante porque nos da confianza para unirnos y trabajar en equipo. Puede que no seamos inmortalizados en la historia, pero por nuestro discipulado podemos encontrar una verdadera importancia en Jesús.

A Story of Hope from Bangladesh

Monpura, Bangladesh, is a beautiful island surrounded by the Meghna River. To the south, beach views stretch into the Bay of Bengal. To the west are forests and gardens where wild deer roam.

But in some areas, natural disasters like cyclones damage the landscape in the summer and autumn months. Houses are lost, farmlands flood, and roads and dikes break. Residents like Noornobi, who lives on Monpura with his family of 11, are always looking for new ways to protect their homes.

Noornobi says his family was poor when they lived in a small hut with a tin roof and hay walls. Their land would flood often, making it difficult to grow vegetables year-round. Noornobi found day labor catching hilsa fish in the river, but some days work was limited. This made it difficult for his family to eat well.

When Noornobi joined Catholic Relief Services' Mutki Project, he learned how to prevent his land from flooding, farm using chemical-free and organic fertilizers, and raise chickens and ducks to sell. Now, with the help of his father and nephew Abdul, Noornobi farms more than half of his land and grows a variety of vegetables—including tomatoes, chilies, eggplant and lal shak, which is like a red spinach. He sells the vegetables at market.

"We have been improving because of vegetable farming ... we slowly began to make a profit," Noornobi says. With that profit, the family bought a larger tin house. Noornobi also helped his brothers open a shop to support their family and pay for private schooling for Abdul, who wants to be an engineer, and his sister Nihar, who dreams of being a schoolteacher.

"If I can build a nice family ... I will be grateful," Noornobi says. And for his community, he hopes everyone can "have a full stomach by working hard in the field."

Una Historia de Esperanza de Bangladesh

Monpura, Bangladesh es una hermosa isla rodeada por el río Meghna. Al sur, la vista de la playa se extiende hasta la bahía de Bengala. Al oeste, hay bosques y jardines donde pasean venados salvajes.

Sin embargo, entre tanta belleza, los ciclones en los meses de verano y otoño causan muchísimos daños destruyendo casas, inundando las tierras y rompiendo carreteras y diques. Los habitantes de Monpura, como Noornobi, que vive con su familia de 11 miembros, buscan nuevas maneras de salir adelante.

La familia de Noornobi era pobre y vivía en una pequeña choza con techo de lámina y paredes de heno. Sus tierras se inundaban seguido, lo que hacía difícil poder cultivar todo el año. Noornobi trabajaba pescando en el río, pero no ganaba suficiente para que su familia pudiera comer bien.

Cuando Noornobi se unió al Proyecto Mutki de Catholic Relief Services, aprendió a proteger sus tierras de las inundaciones y a cultivar con fertilizantes orgánicos y libres de químicos. También aprendió a criar pollos y patos para vender. Con la ayuda de su padre y su sobrino Abdul, Noornobi ahora cultiva más de la mitad de su tierra con una variedad de verduras como tomates, chiles, berenjenas y lal shak (una especie de espinaca roja) y las venden en el mercado.

"Hemos mejorado gracias al cultivo de vegetales... poco a poco empezamos a tener ganancias", dice Noornobi. Con esas ganancias la familia pudo comprar una casa más grande. Noornobi también ayudó a sus hermanos a abrir una tienda para mantener a su familia y a pagar los estudios de Abdul, que quiere ser ingeniero, y de su hermana Nihar, que sueña con ser maestra.

"Si puedo cuidar bien a mi familia... estaré agradecido", comenta Noornobi. Y lo que desea para su comunidad es que todos puedan mantenerse bien alimentados trabajando duro en el campo."

Beyond our Parish

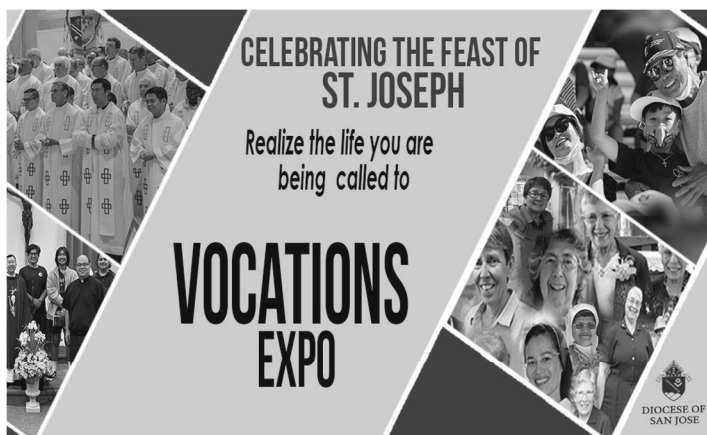

Year of Prayer Themes & Resources - To begin to prepare ourselves for the Universal Synod and our Diocese for our 50th Jubilee, Bishop Oscar Cantú invite us all – laity, religious, and clergy – to participate in a Year of Prayer to convoke the Holy Spirit in our discernment process. The Holy Spirit inspires, strengthens, and guides the Church, and we need to listen prayerfully to the Spirit's promptings so that our Diocese might embark on a journey of faith that is "ever ancient, ever new." Visit <https://www.dsj.org/year-of-prayer/> for more details.
