The Examined Life

The ancient Greek philosopher Socrates asked questions about the nature of being human. His questions led him to believe that the examined life is far more meaningful than the opposite.

This wise realization is an appealing idea because of its simplicity and nearly universal application. The examined life is essential for anyone pursuing spiritual life particularly for Christian Spirituality. Who am I? What is fundamental to humans? Members of one generation to the next ask these questions so as to find a way to stay on the path that leads to truth. This kind of inquiry remains the stimulus for thought. Year after year, we may revisit these questions in order to give a new reply and distinguish the particular from the universal. Each life is unique. Uniqueness makes the examined life possible.

Most Jesuits prayerfully consider the day's events as they prepare for a night's sleep. For many in their community, practicing a daily examen provides a conscientious way to judge the various experiences of the day. (Continued on page 5...)

La Vida Examinada

El antiguo filósofo griego Sócrates hizo preguntas sobre la naturaleza del ser humano. Sus preguntas lo llevaron a creer que la vida examinada es mucho más significativa que la opuesta. Esta sabia realización es una idea atractiva debido a su simplicidad y aplicación casi universal. La vida examinada es esencial para cualquiera que busque la vida espiritual, particularmente para la Espiritualidad Cristiana. ¿Quién soy? ¿Qué es fundamental para los humanos? Los miembros de una generación a la siguiente hacen estas preguntas para encontrar una manera de mantenerse en el camino que conduce a la verdad. Este tipo de indagación sigue siendo el estímulo para el pensamiento. Año tras año, podemos revisar estas preguntas para dar una nueva respuesta y distinguir lo particular de lo universal. Cada vida es única y por eso es posible la vida examinada.

La mayoría de los jesuitas consideran en oración los eventos del día mientras se preparan para dormir por la noche. Para muchos en su comunidad, practicar un examen diario proporciona una forma consciente de juzgar las diversas experiencias del día. (Continúa en la página 5...)

Many religious and lay alike have adopted this practice for its practical and prayerful qualities. Recognizing the good and bad events of life allows us to store the memories that make life worth living and helps us to heal the more difficult experiences of life. Indeed, even while the unpleasant experiences of life are not easily forgotten, such ought not deter anyone from examining daily events. The examined life brings to mind an unsurpassed wisdom and it is vital for growing in full maturity as a follower of Christ.

Throughout this Lenten Season, the growth we experience will resonate with the celebration of Easter and beyond. It will prepare us to know God's mercy and make mercy a part of our daily lives. From one season to the next, we change. To acknowledge change as it occurs allow us to live in the present. As we live in the present we become more keenly aware of ourselves as unique individuals who acknowledge our part in a universal consciousness.

If the examined life is one worth living, then anyone who attends to an examination of conscience will certainly find one's direction in life. Yet, if it is so worthwhile, why then do so many fail to make it a part of their daily practice? Life's meaning is an eternal search that is based in the present. Our time to search for life's meaning is limited, but its rewards are eternal.

The practice of sacramental reconciliation is one way to heal the broken experiences of life. I want to encourage you to take part in the sacrament of reconciliation on Wednesday evenings from 5:30pm to 6:45pm throughout the season of Lent.

(Notas del Párroco, de la pagina 1)

Muchos religiosos y laicos han adoptado esta práctica por sus cualidades prácticas para la oración. Reconocer los eventos buenos y malos de la vida nos permite almacenar los recuerdos que hacen que la vida valga la pena y nos ayuda a sanar las experiencias más difíciles de la vida. De hecho, aunque las experiencias desagradables de la vida no se olvidan fácilmente, eso no debería disuadir a nadie de examinar los acontecimientos cotidianos. La vida examinada trae a la mente una sabiduría insuperable y es vital para crecer en plena madurez como seguidor de Cristo.

A lo largo de esta temporada de Cuaresma, el crecimiento que experimentemos resonará con la celebración de la Pascua y más allá. Nos preparará para conocer la misericordia de Dios y hacer de la misericordia parte de nuestra vida diaria. De una temporada a la siguiente, cambiamos. Reconocer el cambio a medida que ocurre nos permite vivir en el presente. A medida que vivimos en el presente, estamos más conscientes de nosotros mismos como individuos que reconocen nuestra parte en una conciencia universal.

Si la vida examinada es una vida que vale la pena vivir, entonces cualquiera que haga un examen de conciencia ciertamente encontrará su dirección en la vida. Sin embargo, si vale tanto la pena, ¿por qué tantos no lo hacen parte de su práctica diaria? El sentido de la vida es una búsqueda eterna que se basa en el presente. Nuestro tiempo para buscar el significado de la vida es limitado, pero sus recompensas son eternas.

La práctica de la reconciliación sacramental es una forma de sanar las experiencias rotas de la vida. Quiero animarlos a participar en el sacramento de la reconciliación los miércoles por la noche de 5:30 pm a 6:45 pm durante la temporada de Cuaresma.

A Story of Hope from Rwanda

Living in Kigali, Rwanda, Glorioso Uwamahoro and her husband Karekezi Jean Pierre are no strangers to hardship and hard work.

Driven by a dream to send their three children to a good school, Glorioso sells vegetables and water in a kiosk and Karekezi sells vegetables at a market. It's a full day's work. They often return home late at night, but thankful for the blessings they have.

"Our country went through a lot," Glorioso says. "Though I say that our country has made progress, development is still essential, and it is ongoing."

They faced many challenges. Their daughter was malnourished—like many other children in their village. Then Glorioso joined Gikuriro, a project funded by the U.S. government and led by Catholic Relief Services to support the Rwandan government's efforts to combat malnutrition.

In Gikuriro, Glorioso learned how to prepare balanced meals for her children. She also learned about the importance of good hygiene. She shared these and other skills—like how to grow a kitchen garden—with her husband so they could support their children together.

"Parents have to pull together ... because they are our responsibility," Glorioso says about caring for their children.

She later joined a CRS-led micro-savings group and learned how loans could help her grow her business and make more money. Now she earns enough to support her family. She and Karekezi can also afford to fulfill their dream of sending their kids to school.

Glorioso says because parents in her village have gained knowledge about balanced diets, their children are receiving the food they need to grow. But what she considers truly wonderful is how, by participating in the program, "a woman has been given a voice."

"It wasn't a thing before for a woman to speak up ... or borrow a certain amount of money and use it to make profit and pay it back," she says. "That is something to be thankful for."

Una Historia de Esperanza de Ruanda

Glorioso Uwamahoro y su esposo Karekezi viven en Kigali, Ruanda, y como muchos, saben lo que son las dificultades y el trabajo duro.

Impulsados por el sueño de enviar a sus tres hijos a la escuela, Glorioso vende verduras y agua en un quiosco y Karekezi vende verduras en un mercado. Aunque muchas veces regresan tarde a casa, se sienten bendecidos.

"Nuestro país pasó por muchas cosas y, aunque yo digo que ha progresado, el desarrollo continúa siendo importante y sigue en curso", cuenta Glorioso.

Su hija, como muchos niños de su pueblo, estaba desnutrida. Glorioso entró al programa Gikuriro, un proyecto de Catholic Relief Services financiado por el gobierno de Estados Unidos para apoyar al gobierno ruandés a combatir la desnutrición.

En Gikuriro, Glorioso aprendió a preparar comidas balanceadas. También aprendió sobre la importancia de la higiene y cómo cultivar un huerto casero. Ella compartió todos sus conocimientos con su esposo para que, juntos, pudieran mantener sanos a sus hijos.

En cuanto al cuidado de los hijos, "los padres deben trabajar unidos... porque ellos son nuestra responsabilidad", dice Glorioso.

Ella también se unió a un grupo de ahorros de CRS y aprendió cómo podía hacer crecer su negocio con préstamos. Ahora, Glorioso y Karekezi ganan lo suficiente para cumplir su sueño de enviar a sus hijos a la escuela.

Glorioso reconoce que, gracias a que los padres de familia de su pueblo ahora saben sobre dietas balanceadas, sus hijos comen lo que necesitan para crecer. Pero lo que ella considera verdaderamente maravilloso es cómo, al participar en el programa, "se le ha dado voz a una mujer".

"Antes no era común que una mujer hablara ... o que pidiera prestado dinero, que lo usara para obtener ganancias y lo devolviera", dice. "Esto es algo por lo que hay que estar agradecidos".

Message from the Principal

Dear Parishioners,

We just wrapped up our winter season of athletics. Our student athletes were back on the court learning new skills, challenging themselves and building friendships.

Participating in our after school Lightning Athletics program is always a highlight for our students. It has been wonderful to see our athletes back in action and hear the gym full of cheers.

Go Lightning!
