Measuring Time and Timelessness

Today is the 5th Sunday of Lent and next weekend we celebrate Palm Sunday. We are about to conclude this season and transition to Holy Week, the Triduum with Holy Thursday, Good Friday, Holy Saturday and Easter Sunday. Having experienced these seasons and feast over the years has benefited many to a deeper understanding of conversion to the gospel message and our membership in the Body of Christ.

Measuring time is a good reference point for memory and purpose. Knowing when to arrive and when to leave, for working and resting, time for family, time for Church, time for study or reading, each of these has a beginning and end. Our accuracy in measuring time may give us the means to make the best use of it, but for the most part, we are just trying to live in the moment by being present to it. As we live, we measure time, and we know that our time is limited. (Continued on page 5...)

Midiendo el Tiempo y la Eternidad

Hoy es el 5º Domingo de Cuaresma y el próximo fin de semana celebramos el Domingo de Ramos. Estamos por concluir este tiempo y transición a la Semana Santa, el Triduo con Jueves Santo, Viernes Santo, Sábado Santo y Domingo de Resurrección. Habiendo experimentado estas estaciones y fiestas a lo largo de los años ha beneficiado a muchos a una comprensión más profunda de la conversión al mensaje del evangelio y nuestra membresía en el Cuerpo de Cristo.

Midiendo el tiempo es un buen punto de referencia para la memoria y el propósito. Saber cuando llegar y cuando salir, para trabajar y descansar, tiempo para la familia, tiempo para la Iglesia, tiempo para el estudio o la lectura, cada uno de estos tiene un principio y un final. Nuestra precisión en la medición del tiempo puede brindarnos los medios para aprovecharlo al máximo, pero en su mayor parte, solo estamos tratando de vivir el momento estando presentes en él. A medida que vivimos, medimos el tiempo y sabemos que nuestro tiempo es limitado. (Continúa en la página 5...)

On the other hand, we can distinguish the measurement of time from the way we perceive it. While we may be incapable of remembering all the moments of our life with absolute accuracy, there is a sense of timelessness that is built into each of us. This sense of timelessness is a grace filled experience because it gives us a glimpse of eternity and allows us to approach life from a different point of view. These experiences are invaluable because they help us find the meaning of being alive for the time granted to us so we can learn how our temporal existence is advancing toward our true calling to become what we believe.

The word Metanoia comes from ancient Greece—it means a change in life due to penance and spiritual conversion. It suggests that we have the capacity to follow a path for good by avoiding evil. Herein lies the idea of timelessness and measured time. It is a time reckoning and yet there is still enough time to move from one way of life to another. When Metanoia occurs, it is a definitive time of conversion that leads to a lifetime of realizing the effects of spiritual conversion. It has both qualities of time—measured and timeless. Metanoia is a lifelong journey of faith within the experience of one's lifetime, and we may be confident that when we turn away from evil and repent, we will find spiritual conversion that will last into eternity.

As we gather to celebrate the events we anticipate with the conclusion in this season of Lent, let us continue our walk of faith in the timelessness of our hearts and in way that we greet every new day.

Por otro lado, podemos distinguir la medida del tiempo de la forma en que lo percibimos. Es posible que seamos incapaces de recordar todos los momentos de nuestra vida con absoluta precisión, cada uno de nosotros tiene una sensación de eternidad. Este sentido de atemporalidad es una experiencia llena de gracia porque nos da un vistazo a la eternidad y nos permite acercarnos a la vida desde un punto de vista diferente. Estas experiencias son invaluable porque nos ayudan a encontrar el significado de estar vivos por el tiempo que se nos concede para que podamos aprender cómo nuestra existencia temporal está avanzando hacia nuestro verdadero llamado a convertirnos en lo que creemos.

La palabra Metanoia proviene de la antigua Grecia, significa un cambio de vida debido a la penitencia y la conversión espiritual. Sugiere que tenemos la capacidad de seguir un camino para el bien evitando el mal. Aquí radica la idea de atemporalidad y tiempo medido. Es un cálculo del tiempo y, sin embargo, todavía hay tiempo suficiente para pasar de una forma de vida a otra. Cuando ocurre Metanoia, es un momento definitivo de conversión que lleva a una vida de darse cuenta de los efectos de la conversión espiritual. Tiene ambas cualidades del tiempo: medido y atemporal. Metanoia es una jornada de fe de toda la vida dentro de la experiencia de la vida de uno, y podemos estar seguros de que cuando nos alejamos del mal y nos arrepentimos, encontraremos una conversión espiritual que durará por toda la eternidad.

Mientras nos reunimos para celebrar los eventos que anticipamos con la conclusión en esta temporada de Cuaresma, continuemos nuestro camino de fe en la eternidad de nuestros corazones y en la forma en que saludamos cada nuevo día.

Did Jesus Really Rise from the Dead?
The Bodily Resurrection of Jesus as Salvific Revelation for Today's Believers
with Sr. Sandra M. Schneiders

The New Testament is adamant that Jesus rose bodily from the dead, but many Christians find this hard to accept. Sr. Sandra M. Schneiders (Jesuit School of Theology) will address the problem for contemporary Christians: in light of what we know about the finality of death, is there any way modern believers can understand the Church's claim that Jesus, in the full integrity of his humanity, rose bodily from the dead and is personally and actively present to us today?

Apr. 10 – 10:30 a.m.-12:00 noon/4:30-6:00 p.m. PDT
Spanish interpretation at the 4:30 session is sponsored by the Catholic Community Foundation.

Message from the Principal

Dear Parishioners,

Our students love going to the art studio where they are creative and learn how to use many different mediums. Students in grades K-8th spend time with art teacher Mrs. Horowitz throughout the week learning multiple techniques and exploring their creativity through many different types of projects. Our teachers often collaborate to introduce art projects that support an assignment or unit being taught in class. Whether students are working on a self portrait, using watercolor to paint the California mission they did a report on or building a sculpture, there is always fun to be had in the art studio. The halls come alive with student's artwork showcased throughout the school and it is a pleasure to see students stop to admire other student's works of art.

I invite you to come learn more about our school and programs. Join us for a tour to hear what life is like as a Lightning family.

Sue Grover

Principal
