The Challenge of Learning

While attending St. Joseph Seminary in Mountain View almost 38 years ago, we were very fortunate to have a faculty of mostly Sulpician Priests that originated from various parts of the U.S. Many began their work as professors at St. Mary Seminary in Baltimore. One of our professors was very challenging indeed. While he never said it out right, it seemed that he was not terribly fond of California and its environs. He was very formal and insisted on formality in his classroom. He was one of the foremost scholars of classical Greek philosophers—particular on Plato. He taught a course on human nature and its western philosophical underpinnings for first year students. He was incredibly bright and was one of the most demanding professors at the college.

For most of the professors, writing papers on a specific category of our study were the principal way of determining our capacity to learn and reason. (Continued on page 5...)

El Reto del Aprendizaje

Mientras asistíamos al Seminario St. Joseph en Mountain View hace casi 38 años, fuimos muy afortunados de tener una facultad compuesta principalmente por sacerdotes sulpicianos que se originaron en varias partes de los EE. UU. Muchos comenzaron su trabajo como profesores en el Seminario St. Mary en Baltimore. Uno de nuestros profesores fue realmente muy desafiante. Nunca lo dijo claramente, pero parecía que no le gustaba mucho California y sus alrededores. Era muy formal e insistía en la formalidad en su salón de clases. Fue uno de los principales maestros de los filósofos griegos clásicos, en particular de Platón. Impartió un curso sobre la naturaleza humana y sus fundamentos filosóficos occidentales para estudiantes del primer año. Era increíblemente brillante y era uno de los profesores más exigentes de la universidad.

Para la mayoría de los profesores, escribir artículos sobre una categoría específica de nuestro estudio fue la principal forma de determinar nuestra capacidad de aprender y razonar. (Continúa en la página 5...)

Synod Notes Notas del Sínodo

Grading papers was his specialty, and with great delight he would return our papers with grades that were by and large disappointing—save the few that captured clearly the philosophical concepts that he was trying to impart. He was not a very patient man and his quick wit put an obstreperous student in his place. Everyone one in the class was perplexed about how to approach the required study—even those who were considered best in the class.

One of the things that made him a very good teacher was his fairness. Anyone could challenge any grade he rendered and he would allow any student to improve his standing by offering a second chance with another paper on the same or similar subject. When you received a poor grade in his class, he meant it as an honest assessment and was less inclined to inflate a student's ego. He was just and fair.

Having such clarity at times is a blessing indeed. To know what is right and true and to act in a way commensurate speaks well of one's ability to think clearly and be fair. Still, for the one on the receiving end of a poor grade it was a rather disappointing experience. Anyone that wants to learn will often confront the specter of being less than adequate, and for many students such a deficit will be the catalyst for making greater efforts to learn the material and eventually arrive at some mastery of the subject at hand.

The same can be applied to our spiritual life. In all ways we wish to be fair and wise, and as we gain deeper understanding of God's Word, we hope to arrive at some mastery that will lead us to eternal life.

Calificar nuestros trabajos era su especialidad, y con gran placer devolvía nuestros trabajos con calificaciones que en general eran decepcionantes, excepto los pocos que capturaban claramente los conceptos filosóficos que estaba tratando de impartir. No era un hombre muy paciente y su ingenio ponía en su lugar a un estudiante escandaloso. Todos en la clase estaban aturrullados acerca de cómo hacer el estudio requerido, incluso aquellos que se consideraban los mejores de la clase.

Una de las cosas que lo hizo un muy buen maestro fue su imparcialidad. Cualquiera podía cuestionar cualquier calificación y el permitiría que cualquier estudiante mejorara su posición ofreciéndole una segunda oportunidad con otro trabajo sobre el mismo tema o uno similar. Cuando un estudiante recibió una calificación baja en su clase, era una evaluación honesta y estaba menos inclinado a inflar el ego de un estudiante. Era justo y equitativo.

Tener tal claridad a veces es una verdadera bendición. Saber lo que es correcto y verdadero y actuar de manera proporcional habla bien de la capacidad de pensar con claridad y ser justo. Aún así, para el que recibió una mala calificación fue una experiencia bastante decepcionante. Cualquiera que quiere aprender a menudo se enfrentará al espectro de ser menos que adecuado, y para muchos estudiantes tal déficit será el catalizador para hacer mayores esfuerzos para aprender el material y eventualmente llegar a dominar el tema en cuestión.

Lo mismo se puede aplicar a nuestra vida espiritual. Deseamos ser justos y sabios en todos los sentidos, y a medida que adquirimos una comprensión más profunda de la Palabra de Dios, esperamos llegar a algún dominio que nos lleve a la vida eterna.

Message from the Principal

Dear Parishioners,

The St. Lucy School campus has been a busy one this past month! We hosted Spring Socials for each grade, the 1st grade moms gathered for a Mother's Day tea, our students walked in our annual Walk-a-thon, the 1st grade dads joined students on campus for a special early Father's Day celebration and we welcomed back the Class of 2018 alumni and their parents for our traditional Sr. Send-Off event. So many exciting events as we wrap up our school year!

Students earned pledges in support of their school, as they geared up for our annual walk-a-thon, which took place on Wednesday, 5/18. This year's Rock-a-thon was a huge success! Together we raised $36,000. A big thank you to all the families, friends, grandparents, and local sponsors who supported our Lightning and school! Also, thank you to the St. Lucy PTG, Booster Club and parent volunteers for working so hard to make this event a success. Students, faculty, staff and even parents rocked their Rock-a-thon shirts and hit the track! The day began in Family Groups, where each family created a family crest that was presented by their 8th grade student leader on the symbolic first lap around the track. The sun was shining, music was rock'n and the students had a blast!

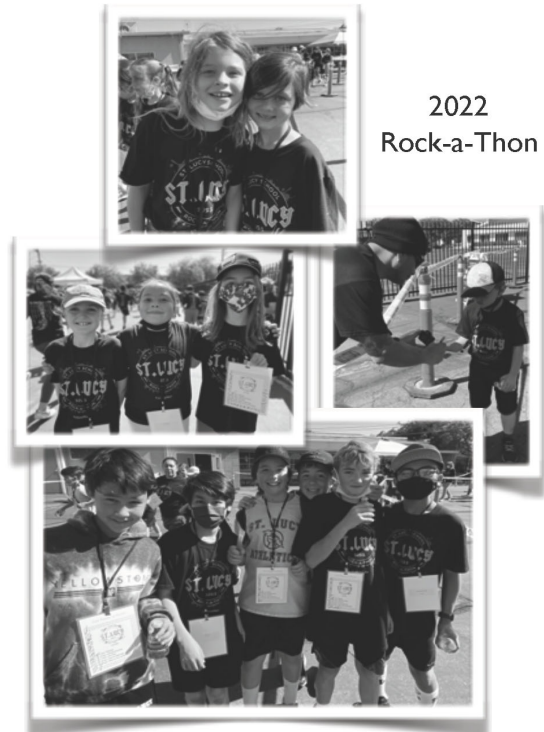

It was exciting to welcome back the Class of 2018 to celebrate each student and their accomplishments as they graduate from high school. The room was filled with laughter, conversation, and lots of hugs as they reconnected with each other, shared future plans, and reminisced about the days they spent at St. Lucy School together. The classrooms were open, and they walked the halls stopping into classrooms to look at memory books of their class and sit at their old desk. They left messages on the board for current St. Lucy Lightning, sharing some of the memories they cherish most and lessons learned during their time spent here. Congratulations Class of 2018! Continue to shine your light in the world!

God bless,

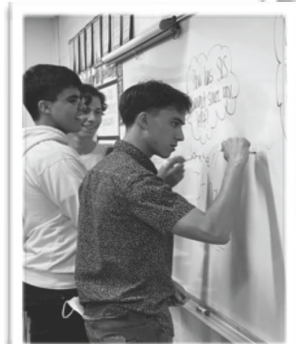

Sue Grover
